Delegations of the Secours Catholique

Secours Catholique

Founded in 1946, Secours Catholique/ Caritas France is a service of the Catholic Church, a member of Caritas Internationalis Confederation and an approved public utility association. A non profit organisation as defined by the Law of July 1, 1901, it manages an annual budget of 130M Euros and is supported by a network of some 65,000 volunteers for “bringing help either direct or indirect, moral or material aid wherever there is a need for it, with the exception of any distinctive national or confessional religious identity, irrespective of the philosophical or religious opinions of the beneficiaries.” (Extract of the statutes, art. 1)

Our mission

The mission of Secours Catholique is to spread Christian Charity by creating a solid unity between everyone, whether in France or throughout the world.

Secours Catholique considers that men, women and children living in situations of poverty play a major part in their own development.

It makes a commitment to fight side by side with them against the causes of poverty and exclusion, and promote the development of the human person in all its aspects.

It seeks an active partnership with organisations that share its objectives in order to promote social justice in local, national and international policies.

In accordance with Christianity, it invites each person to go and meet the poorest people, listen to them, support them and associate with them so that together we can build a fairer and more fraternal society.

Our values

Faithful to the spirit of our origins, Secours Catholique roots its action in Christian values and the key principles defined by the social teachings of the Church: Respect and dignity of the human person, justice, solidarity, fraternity, reconciliation, peace, the preferential option for the poor, the integral development of the human person, sub-solidarity, the universal destination of goods, the indivisibility of rights.

Our action principles

The action of Secours Catholique finds all its meaning in a global vision of poverty which aims at restoring the human person's dignity and is part and parcel of sustainable development. To do so, six key principles guide this action, both in France and abroad:

- Promoting the place and words of people living in situations of poverty
- Making each person a main player of their own development
- Joining forces with people living in situations of poverty
- Acting for the development of the human person in all its aspects
- Acting on the causes of poverty and exclusion
- Arousing solidarity

The power of a network

The actions of Secours Catholique are implemented by a network of local teams of volunteers integrated into the diocesan delegations and supported by the volunteers and employees of the national headquarters. On an international level Secours Catholique acts in cooperation with its partners of the Caritas Internationalis network. Key figures of Secours Catholique:

- 100 diocesan or departmental delegations
- 4,000 local teams
- 65,000 volunteers
- 974 employees
- 2,174 reception centres
- 3 centres: Cité Saint-Pierre in Lourdes, Maison d'Abraham in Jerusalem, Cedre in Paris
- 14 housing centres managed by the Association des Cités of Secours Catholique
- 162 Caritas Internationalis partners
- 600,000 donors.

2006-2011: the 6 directions of Secours Catholique

In 2006, Secours Catholique defined the directions it would be taking on a national basis for the six coming years:

Direction 1: Strengthen our support with the most marginalised or isolated people and areas by partnership and inclusion in the network.

Direction 2: Join forces with the people we have met via fraternal support and collective action.

Direction 3: Act on the causes of poverty by making a commitment to people who endure it.

Direction 4: Strengthen the international commitment of all the main players of the network, notably by developing concrete collaboration between the delegations and Caritas.

Direction 5: Encourage and support the united commitment of everyone by adapting our actions, our training and our communication.

Direction 6: Dare to experience fraternity with poor people in Church and share together the search for a meaning.

S. Le Olegio / S.C.

Acting in France

Every year Secours Catholique encounters almost 700,000 situations of poverty and receives 1.6 million people (860,000 adults and 740,000 children).

This daily mission led in the field by the local teams and delegations, with the support of national headquarters, pursues three major objectives which aim at exceeding the distribution action and limited aid:

- Receiving to reply to the primary needs (supplying food and/or health care aid, proposing accommodation, establishing an exchange and a fraternal dialogue, etc)
- Supporting to restore social ties (bringing together people in difficulty with an aim to reinsertion, encouraging personal initiatives and collective projects, establishing a mutual support helper-receiver of help relationship, etc)
- Developing to strengthen solidarity (proposing long lasting solutions, establishing a follow-up over the long term, encouraging collective actions carried out by people in difficulty, etc)

Emergencies in France: reacting to disasters

Secours Catholique has a local emergency relief policy for reacting, as quickly as possible, to natural and human disasters. Its knowledge of the field, its local network, its privileged link with Christian communities and its experience of receiving weakened people brings determining support to the action carried out by the authorities. Secours Catholique is authorised to intervene by departmental agreement, within the framework of the ORSEC plan.

Secours Catholique relies on its expertise and its strong presence in the field to respond to very varied forms of poverty.

Family

The families received often do not have any financial means and are experiencing housing problems, unemployment, broken homes. Secours Catholique encourages access to health care, proposes food aid, family holidays, support with administrative procedures, practical help with looking for accommodation, etc.

Childhood & youth

To support parents in their role as their children's first teachers Secours Catholique offers educational support and a family holiday reception formula (AFV - Accueil familial de vacances). For raising young children's awareness of charity, the Caritas clubs and the Réseau Jeunes Solidaires offer a suitable framework for encouraging their commitment.

Homelessness

Secours Catholique endeavours to reply to the growing needs of caring for the most marginalised and isolated people: reception day and night, emergency accommodation, night rounds, discussion groups, etc.

Employment - integration

Secours Catholique provides help to the unemployed or those on the minimum benefit who wish to set up their own companies by favouring recourse to loans (Fonds Solidaire pour les Initiatives – Solidarity Funds for Initiatives). It provides support to people on “minimum benefit integration contracts” in associations that it creates or supports.

Prison

Prison teams, spread throughout the country, visit prisoners, keep up regular correspondence with them and provide support to their families. Secours Catholique is committed to defending the dignity and the rights of prisoners.

Migrants

Being attentive to the needs of migrants is an essential Christian value. Secours Catholique supports foreigners in a precarious situation. Cedre (Centre d'entraide des demandeurs réfugiés et émigrants - Mutual aid centre for asylum seeker refugees and emigrants), a centre of Secours Catholique, provides support to asylum seekers in their procedures and offers activities that encourage integration (learning French, expression workshops, discussion, theatre groups and so on).

P. Delapierre / S.C.

Gypsies

The majority of diocesan delegations carry out an activity with a view to helping Gypsies: itinerant or temporary schooling, help with purchasing school vehicles, help with administrative procedures, etc.

Institutional action: acting on the causes of poverty

An alarm-raising and proposal force, Secours Catholique is committed to promoting social justice and fighting against exclusion. Boosted by credibility acknowledged by the institutions, it carries out a determined action to get the laws changed and convince the authorities to have strong and efficient policies to fight against poverty. Based on actual figures, the institutional action plays the role of social watchdog, characterised by the annual publication of a statistical report on the condition of the poor in France. Regularly consulted as part of national discussions, Secours Catholique places its expertise at the service of common good. An associative main player with a tendency towards collective action, it participates in various action groups and platforms (Collectif Alerte, platform for the right to opposable housing, etc.)

Secours Catholique is a member of:

- UNIOPPS (Union Nationale inter-fédérale des œuvres et organismes privés sanitaires et sociaux - National inter-federal union of private social and welfare charities and organisations)
- CNLE (Conseil national de lutte contre la pauvreté et l'exclusion sociale - National council for the fight against poverty and social exclusion)
- CNCDH (Commission nationale consultative des droits de l'homme - National human rights consultative commission)
- EAPN (European Anti-Poverty Network)

Secours Catholique participates in:

- Watchdog Council of CNAF (Caisse Nationale d'allocations familiales - Family benefit Office)
- Cosla (Comité d'orientation et de simplification du langage administrative - Committee for the management and simplification of administrative language)
- Comité épiscopal socio-caritatif de la Commission sociale de l'épiscopat (Episcopal social charity committee of the Social Commission of the Episcopacy).

P. Delapierre / S.C.

Acting throughout the world

Because charity has no frontiers, Secours Catholique / Caritas France has, from its very outset, carried out major actions on an international basis. As a member of Caritas Internationalis, every year at the request of local Caritas groups, it supports more than 500 international aid operations for underprivileged countries and populations. The emergency or development actions deployed in more than 80 countries are conducted by the headquarters' International Action Department and by the delegations. To contribute to the financing of its projects Secours Catholique/Caritas France benefits from financial aid from the European Union within the framework of a partnership with Echo (European Community Humanitarian aid Office).

Development actions

In collaboration with the local Caritas groups, Secours Catholique/Caritas France finances and supports development projects over the long term: access to education and schooling, strengthening of women's social status, prevention and care for AIDS sufferers, defence and organisation of civil populations, promoting peace in war zones, supporting and assisting refugee camps, etc.

International Emergencies

Secours Catholique/Caritas France supports emergency relief programmes associated with natural disasters, situations of conflict and displacement of populations. In liaison with local partners it supplies in situ, human means (trained volunteers) and materials (food, medicine, etc). The emergency relief programmes are elaborated with a view to sustainable development (e.g. Tsunami in South-East Asia, Kosovo).

Caritas Internationalis: an organised global network

Leading global solidarity network, Caritas Internationalis groups together 162 national Caritas agencies. A charity of the Universal Church, this international confederation, present on every continent, constitutes both an organised force capable of intervening at any given moment in most countries of the world and a privileged source of information. Run and coordinated by the confederation authorities, the Caritas groups act in close co-operation to bring suitable responses to emergency relief and development problems. Caritas Internationalis benefits from the status of UN observer member.

International advocacy: fostering globalisation

Because the answer to many problems can only be global Secours Catholique/Caritas France actively takes part in action groups and international networks for pressing on political, economical and financial decision-makers, and promoting a fair and humane vision of development.

E. Perriot / S.C.

International advocacy means having an influence on the challenges associated with globalisation. This commitment becomes a reality by taking a stand (fair trade, sustainable development, etc.), special interventions (the conflicts in Sudan, promoting peace in the Middle East, etc.) themed campaigns (transparency of financial revenue, access to natural resources, etc.).

Advocacy actions are elaborated from analysing concrete situations. They aim not only at alerting politicians and international authorities, but also to raise awareness and mobilise public opinion via operations involving collecting signatures and sending cards.

By this process Secours Catholique/Caritas France and its international partners seek to strengthen the positions of civil society, for contributing to reducing the gap between rich and poor countries and correct malfunctioning and injustices which hinder development efforts.

Joining Secours Catholique

Secours Catholique proposes various ways of getting involved and very varied activities, which enable everyone to contribute according to their motivations, possibilities and talents. The commitment to Secours Catholique constitutes an extremely rich human adventure made up of meeting, sharing, communicating and fraternity. It is a way of giving a meaning to one's life by participating in a network of national and international solidarity.

Being a volunteer

Commitment is essential for volunteers for spreading the work of Secours Catholique via the proposed activities: receiving and supporting people in difficulty, discussion groups, running workshops, shared meals, re-housing, accompanying the funerals of those "who died in the street", receiving people day and night, night rounds, coffee in the street, social grocery supplies, solidarity shops, international and institutional action, pilgrimages, etc.

In compliance with the volunteer charter, every volunteer contributes to the mission entrusted by the Church of "manifesting God's love towards one and all", setting out to "develop a greater justice and fraternity", by maintaining "their trust in humanity" and their conviction that "every person, even the most down and out, has the ability to bounce back". This commitment involves reciprocal obligations between the volunteer and Secours Catholique.

For every €100 received

For every €100 received Secours Catholique allocates €80 to carrying out social missions and €20 to operating costs and fund-raising (source: Financial Report 2006).

*including the watchdog and raising awareness of solidarity: €10

Being a donor

Donating is a concrete expression of sharing with people in difficulty. Donations are the foundations of Secours Catholique's action: beyond giving one's time and one's money, it is self-sacrifice, without compensation, which enables each and everyone to deploy the charity within their heart to serve those most in need. With their financial contribution the 600,000 donors of Secours Catholique fully join the volunteers who act every day in the charity field. Donations: BP 455 Paris 7^e

Legacies and donations

It is also possible to leave legacies, make donations and give life insurance for the benefit of Secours Catholique. Exempt from transfer rights, these formulas enable building long term projects for people in difficulty.

Comité de la Charte

Secours Catholique is a member of Comité de la Charte, an independent French organisation that controls associations and foundations. It commits to respecting the deontology of organisations which call upon public generosity. It acts in all transparency and voluntarily submits to a control of the organisation.

Publications: the right information in the right time

Informing society about poverty and its causes has constituted an authentic mission for Secours Catholique since it started out. This is the role of the various publications proposed by the association.

Messages

Every month the magazine Messages reports about extreme hardship, exclusions and conflicts, both in France and around the world. It gives a say to people in difficulty, provides an analysis of the causes of situations of exclusion, proposes several leads for discussion and solutions for fighting durably against poverty, talks about actions carried out in the field. With a print run of 600,000 copies it represents a privileged link between Secours Catholique, its volunteers and its donors.

Web site

The web site presents local, national and international information about Secours Catholique. Updated weekly, it proposes articles, special news articles, slide shows and interviews, etc. In addition, it contains all the practical information on the activities of the association and enables accessing the site of each delegation.

Thematic publications

They highlight specific subjects (Gypsies, the fight against illiteracy and so on) or support the international petitioning actions. The annual report of Secours Catholique on the state of poverty, carried out from reception statistics, constitutes a long awaited appointment for the press and the institutions.

Historical points of reference

1946-1955

The calling. Secours Catholique was founded in 1946 on the calling of the Assembly of Cardinals and Archbishops of France. On 8 September 1946, Jean Rodhain, former chaplain of prisoners of war, announced the birth of Secours Catholique in Lourdes, on the occasion of the prisoners' return pilgrimage. The first years were marked by campaigns which aimed at exploring every form of poverty (the sick, the elderly, unhappy childhood, housing and so on). In 1951 Secours Catholique participated in the creation of the international conference of Catholic charities - Conférence Internationale des Charités Catholiques (the future Caritas Internationalis confederation).

1956-1965

Development. The time of the campaigns made way for the time of the Cités. After Cité Notre-Dame in Paris, which replaced the emergency tents of winter 54, Cité Saint-Pierre in Lourdes was opened in 1956 to receive poor pilgrims. The impetus was given, and the foundations multiplied during the course of the following decades. In 1958 the first "kilometres of sun" campaign was launched. In 1961 the micro-actions were born, little development actions for the third world. In 1962, Secours Catholique was approved as a public utility association. The Maison d'Abraham in Jerusalem opened in 1964.

1966-1975

The debate. Secours Catholique did not escape the major debates of these turning years: charity or justice? It would be one and the other! Faithful to its mission of spreading Christian charity, it also recognised the political dimension of a charitable action. At the same time it proclaimed passing from "doing for" to "doing with" the poor. The international action was marked by the tragedy of Biafra. In 1972, the Meeting of Hope gathered together more than 1,500 young people in Lourdes.

1976-1985

Justice! Present in the teaching of its origins, the institutional action is part of the action structures of Secours Catholique: it is necessary to act on the causes of poverty! The Commission Action Institutionnelle (Institutional Action Committee) was set up in 1976. The sudden emergence of mass unemployment and the question of housing supplied cruel matter to this decisive change of direction. Secours Catholique privileged thematic campaigns: “And unemployed” in 1980, “And alone” in 1985. This decade was also marked by the death of Jean Rodhain on 1st February 1977 in Lourdes.

1986-1995

The seal of approval. Secours Catholique professionalised its communication and broadened its target beyond the boundaries of the Church. Obtaining the seal of approval “Major national cause” in 1988 enabled it to launch the “unchain your heart” campaign on every type of media. After the “What about the poor, Mr President?” in 1988, Secours Catholique contributed to the creation of the RMI, the minimum allowance benefit to help the poorest people. On an international basis Caritas devoted its energies to Rwanda and ex-Yugoslavia.

1996-2005

The lines of action. In 1997, Secours Catholique proclaimed its three main lines of action: “Promoting the place and the words of the poor – Acting for social transformation and justice – Experiencing the mission received in Church”. In 1998, the law on exclusion crowned several bitter years of institutional combat. In 2001, Secours Catholique participated in a massive mobilisation for the victims of AZF in Toulouse. In 2004, the Tsunami in South-East Asia led to Secours Catholique implementing actions of exceptional scope.

X. Schweibel / S.C.

Future directions. In 2006, Secours Catholique defined 6 directions for the 5 coming years: “To strengthen the support we give to the most marginalised or isolated people and areas by implementing networks and partnerships.” “To associate with people we meet via fraternal support and collective action.” “To act upon the causes of poverty by taking on a commitment to the people who are subjected to it.” “To strengthen the international commitment of all the main players of the network, notably by developing solid collaboration between the delegations and the Caritas agencies.” “To encourage and support the united commitment of one and all by adapting our actions, our training and our communication.” “To dare live true fraternity with the poor within the Church and share together the search for a meaning.”
