Give health to 60,000 sick children in Colombia

For the last 15 years in Medellin, there has been a closure of pediatric beds in public and private healthcare centers. This trend is attributed to the low profitability of specialized pediatric services. Consequently, there has been a rise in waiting times for pediatric patients requiring hospitalization, increasing the likelihood of severe complications and mortality among children. This saturation primarily impacts patients of subsidized health insurance schemes and vulnerable communities.

Principal objectives

- Strengthen specialized pediatric services to treat complex diseases such as childhood cancer, congenital heart disease, transplants, neonatal care, congenital malformations, emergencies and burns.
- Guarantee access to quality medical care for the country's most vulnerable population.
- Provide access to high quality and complex health services, promoting human rights, especially for people living in rural areas, indigenous communities and vulnerable populations in our region.

SOCIAL IMPACT

The San Vicente Foundation Hospital serves a large population from different municipalities of Antioquia, including: Medellín, Itagüí, Bello, Sabaneta, Envigado, Copacabana, Barbosa, La Estrella, from both rural and urban areas. The hospital also provides care to the indigenous population, with greater participation of the Embera Chami community.

In addition, its impact and coverage transcend the departmental territory, with greater participation in the departments of Chocó, Córdoba and Caldas, as well as the Venezuelan migrant population and foreign patients from all over the world.

"Our greatest impact is saving lives and giving hope to the children of Colombia."

The most important specialties of our children's hospital are:

Oncology, nephrology, burns, trauma surgery, emergencies, transplants and congenital malformations. All these services cover the age range from 0 to 15 years old.
