How are you?

You matter to everyone at Wings of Recovery Network, Inc. You have made a choice to be here for us and our mission, and we are here for you during these uncertain times. Let us know how you are doing!

We are also choosing to move forward. While we don't have everything figured out, Wings of Recovery Network, Inc. does know a couple things:

1. You matter to us.
2. You matter to the people who are struggling with substance abuse.

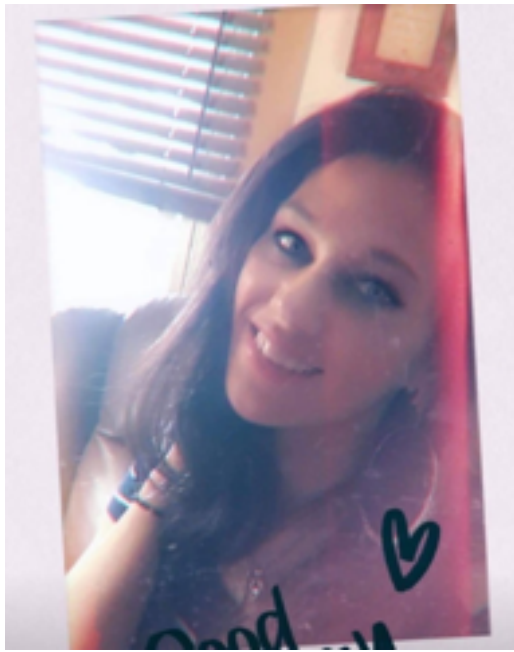

Without your generous donations we would not have been able to fly twelve people to the treatment facility they were accepted to. We also would not have been able to help twenty others get into treatment facilities.

So far this year we have been able to fly three people to the treatment facility they were accepted to and were able to get help for five other people struggling with this disease.

The people at Wings of Recovery Network Inc. promise to keep you updated every month to let you know where your donations are going. For now, though, know we are thinking about you and hoping you are well! If someone you know or if you need help please reach out to us. Thank you and stay safe.

Sincerely,

Melissa DeJesus

This is one of our client's before and after picture. She never thought she could get clean and sober, but now she has 9 months clean.
