Crises in Cameroon has had the most impact on Education leaving the future of an entire generation uncertain

Many IDP's left behind their sources of livelihood

Sending children to school poses a huge financial burden and some may drop out

Intervention most often comes in the form of immediate relief like food, shelter, clothing, toiletries with little attention paid on education

Providing school bags/supplies reduces the financial burden of sending children to school on families and also motivates pupils to stay in school

Education of these pupils have a long term impact on their families, communities and the nation that I cannot do it alone
