- Fruit trees don't just feed your community, they also feed the wildlife in your neighborhood.

Everybody wins when inclusive business practices are used: tourists, businesses, and local communities. Local artisans crafting unique souvenirs, guides showing off the beauty of their natural environment, waiters that serve delicious local dishes with a smile and a greeting in the local language, communities welcoming guests and protecting their natural environment ... there are many ways to achieve mutual benefit

Our Commitment to Inclusive Tourism

Seeds

The "new tourist" seeks memorable experiences that resonate on an emotional level

Water

growth within experiential markets, including adventure and cultural tourism, is outstripping that of mainstream segments

Sunlight

Investing in professional development leads to excellent quality of service, while investing in well-being ensures a loyal, positive and solid staff base

Tree

Human development is beyond simply earning an income, people can establish their own businesses, pursue a career, etc.

Sapling

Inclusive business practices enhance reputations and improve relations with key stakeholders

Seedling

Collaborating with local low-income people can also help to develop innovative products. Handmade gifts that come with a story of empowering local communities are more attractive than imported anonymous trinkets

Fruit

Tourism that is well integrated into the unique identity of a destination provides incentives and funds for the conservation of natural, cultural and historical resources, enabling them to be managed in a more sustainable manner
