HELP US FUND EDUCATION FOR CHILDREN IN COLOMBIA

In Colombia, many talented children from low-income families lack access to quality, effective education in private schools. One such child is eight-year-old Guadelupe. She shares a small, modest room and bed with her ailing grandmother. Despite her strong desire to learn, she struggles in a public school that does not nurture her potential. Public school classes are overcrowded, and drug gangs operate on school grounds.

Kidnappings, particularly of young girls, are not uncommon. This is why we support talented children from impoverished families by providing them with the means to attend private schools. This education helps them develop their potential, enabling them to escape poverty.

The St. Vincent Pallotti Scholarship Fund will give these children a chance they might otherwise never have.
